2. Targets

The course is part of the curriculum of the Special Education Teacher Training, Religious Education and Psychopedagogy programs. For our students it will be a compulsory course. It will form the content of the subjects "Field of Practice" and "Tools of the Field of Professional Teaching Practice". It will also be open to professionals and agents of the field of education, social work and social health, as well as students and teachers of related careers, to whom an institutional certificate of the course will be given.

3. Area in which the course is located within the programs

The course is in the Culture of Peace course of studies, within the area of Education for Global Citizenship, within the framework of the UNESCO Chair Education for Diversity based in our Institute.

4. Justification of the course

In virtue of our UNESCO Chair, we have taken as our own the axis of global citizenship that emerges from the Sustainable Development Goals of the UNESCO 2030 Agenda, in particular, Goal 4.7, which aims to ensure that all students acquire the theoretical and practical knowledge to promote, among other things, sustainable development, human rights, the promotion of the culture of peace and non-violence, world citizenship and the appreciation of cultural diversity.

In consonance with the Culture of Peace and Encounter emerging from our Christian identity, we consider it especially important to educate for peace in the training of future and current teachers, because of the possibility of impact on children at the initial, primary and secondary levels.

When it comes to the training of professionals dedicated to the educational field, we consider relevant the treatment of the experiences of Hiroshima and Nagasaki to promote a future which does not repeat the tragedies that humanity has already suffered, to transmit the value of peace as a common good to humanity and not to deviate towards the path of self-destruction. These experiences transcend today their own geographical and temporal contexts and provide learning to the world to oppose nuclear weapons.

The purpose of this course is to multiply this awareness, analyzing in a systematic way the reality of the bombings and their consequences for all humanity.

5. Objectives of the course

The training of educators aware of the importance of transmitting and multiplying the Culture of Peace within the framework of the construction of citizenship. The recognition that interventions in the social field are possible thanks to the support of joint projects and the awareness of our belonging to the same humanity, from the different cultural identities, as well as the fact that fraternity and solidarity are the pillars of educational values for the development of the world.

In this context, students will receive information about the atomic bombings in Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and they will approach the subject from different perspectives to understand the fundamental message of the survivors: that no one else should suffer in the same way, and that we must aspire to the total elimination of nuclear weapons for world peace on firm foundations.

Objectives

Haiku is a synthetic expression of Japanese soul, which makes of harmony its central reality. The purpose of these encounters is for the student to understand the Japanese notion of harmony, because without it, it is not possible to build peace. Thus, we will understand that haiku is a form of poetry that is born of peace and contributes to peace.

Contents

In these encounters, students will analyze a repertoire of Japanese haikus that show and denounce a war situation (first encounter) and a repertoire of haikus that express the harmony in which the haijin aspires to live (second encounter).
